Professional Summary

Greg has represented clients involved in the public sector throughout California, including water and sanitation agencies, hospital districts, charter schools, and municipalities for more than 30 years. He advises individuals and businesses on governmental affairs, including legislation, initiatives, ethics, permits and other entitlements.

Greg also serves as general counsel to several successful public self-insurance pools for general liability and workers' compensation liability, including self-insurance pools in Orange and San Diego Counties.

Much of Greg's work has focused on the adoption of rates and charges, public financing and intergovernmental relations. His public agency clients include Encina Wastewater Authority, Lakeside Water District and South Orange County Wastewater Authority.

As part of his public agency practice, Greg regularly advises clients on governmental transparency laws, such as the Brown Act, conflict of interest laws, public records, as well as laws regarding compliance with public works projects and prevailing wage laws, the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and other environmental laws and regulations. In addition, he advises public and private clients on environmental, land use and water law issues that arise in real estate development.
